Cobocok Chronicles.

Miss J. Wakelin left here this week for Lindsay, where she accepted a position.

A number from Cleveland, Ohio, are trying their luck at fishing in our lakes.

Pte. Walter Brew spent the week-end visiting friends at Woodville.

Pte. George Woods, of Kinmount, spent Friday of last week at the home of his brother here.

Rev. Lord, of Fenelon Falls, addressed the members of the Masonic Lodge in the Presbyterian church here on Sunday last.

Pte. W. E. Moore visited in Toronto over the week-end.

Pte. Howard Wilkinson left here last week for Whitby, where he will be under treatment in the hospital for wounds in his hip.

Miss Jean Grieve is visiting in Port Hope for a time.

A number from here attended the White school picnic on Saturday.

Mr. M. A. Cooke spent the week-end in Toronto.

Three more soldiers returned home on Tuesday of last week, namely, I. Rutter, Norman Rutter and Walter Brew, all of whom enlisted in the 109th and served overseas in the 38th.

Miss Vera Embury, of Toronto, is visiting at her home here for a few days.

Burnt River

Mr. J. Windrim and family, of Lindsay, visited friends here early this week.

Mrs. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. W. Reed and family motored to Cameron on Sunday morning last and spent the day with friends there.

Mrs. Wm. Britnell, of Toronto, is holidaying at Mrs. Turner Brisbin's.

Miss Jennie Wood, of Lindsay, is spending a few weeks at her home here.

Mr. Geo. Wood and Miss Trene Hodgson motored to Lindsay Saturday evening and returned on Sunday.

Mr. Suggit, accompanied by a friend from Baddow, visited the Misses Shuttleworth last week-end.

Mrs. R. Stewart returned home on Saturday, after spending a couple of weeks with Mrs. S. Pocock here.

Mrs. Poulston, of Fell's Station, visited her sister, Mrs. Shuttleworth, last week-end.

We are pleased to report Miss Alice Hopkins gradually improving in health, under the care of Dr. Johnston, of Fenelon Falls.

Great damage is reported done by a storm in Minnesota.

Highland Grove

The shipment of stock which was sent to United Farmers', on Saturday 14th, turned out well, realizing good prices and giving satisfaction to everyone. On Saturday the 21st the farmers interested met in Huff's hall and formed themselves in a Farmer's club with a membership of 32 and more coming. The farmers are beginning to realize that they have to present a united front to obtain a fair deal.

Herbert Townsend received quite a nasty cut from a slab saw on Tuesday last at Huff's mill.

Miss McEachern will be in charge of Entrance Examinations at Highland Grove.

Mr. Ammon Toms, wife and family have come from Lindsay to reside in our midst.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Joseph Ayotte, a former resident, had died in Lindsay and extend our sympathy to Mr. Ayotte and family.

Miners' Bay

Mr. Arthur Liscomb, of Cobocok, was very badly hurt on Saturday, when his team ran down a hill throwing him under the wagon, a wheel passing over his body. He was brought to Mr. J. Bradimore's, where he is under the care of Dr. R. O. Frost. Both of his parents are with him.

Several of the young people from here attended the picnic at Moore's Falls, also the dance at Mr. Wicks'.

Mrs. H. S. Tracy spent a few days with friends in Toronto.

Corp. E. E. Valentine, accompanied by his sister Ethel spent, a few days in Lindsay.

Miss Lizzie Grozelle has returned to Lindsay, after spending a few weeks with her mother who has been very ill.

Miss Lena Valentine returned to Kinmount, after spending a couple of weeks at her home here.

Messrs. M. Otto, George and Fred Liscombe, L. Angiers, J. Bradimore and Charles Peel motored from Cobocok to the Bay on Saturday night.

Canada's Need

The need is for good, clean, healthy men and women; therefore be healthy. Strive your utmost to maintain the best of health. Make your home, your workshop, your office and the children's school healthy, not forgetting that the unit of the community in which you live is the home; and, as we each make its environment healthy, we are each doing our bit to improve the health of the community and the country generally.

The great advance cannot be made certain without the co-operation of individuals. Make Canada's success a sure thing by joining in the effort at once.

North Lochlin

Mr. Levi Burke purchased a fine young horse from Mr. Chas. Brohm.

Mr. Robert Hanthorn, Miss Edna Blair, Mr. James Blair and Miss Elsie McIntosh, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bolton on Sunday.

Messrs. Levi and Alex Burk were business visitors in Haliburton on Thursday.

Mrs. John Emerson and children visited the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Robertson on Sunday.

Mr. Alfred Burk is home from Mr. Deacon's mill, suffering from quinsy.

Callers will not find many people at home these days, owing to the excellent crop of strawberries this summer.

German Fleet Sunk By Their Own Crews

The German officers and sailors, forming the complement of the German ships interred at Scapa Flow, sank most of their fleet Sunday. All the big ships, the battle ships and battle cruisers, excepting the Baden, and numerous smaller craft were sunk, while others went ashore in a half sunken condition.

The wholesale sinking of the German ships, which came to Scapa Flow to surrender under the terms of the armistice, was carefully arranged by the officers and crews. All explosives had been removed, and therefore, the only means of destroying the fleet was by opening the sea cocks. The ships went slowly down with the German flag which the crews had hoisted, showing at the mast heads.

The crews composed entirely of Germans, under the terms of the armistice, which did not permit of British guards, aboard, took to the boats when the vessels began to settle. They were picked up by the guard ships and there were a few casualties. They were made prisoners.

When Will Trouble Cease?

According to recent semi-official advice within a very short period the railways of Canada can be expected to make another application for an increase in freight rates on the ground that the present rates are insufficient to enable them to pay increased operating and maintenance costs because of the high and growing cost of materials and labor. In all probability an increase of twenty-five per cent. will be asked for. During the war two increases were granted, one of fifteen per cent., another of twenty-five per cent., and now a third one of twenty per cent. This would mean, if granted, that the cost of freight rates would be raised from forty-four per cent. above pre-war rates to seventy-three per cent. above pre-war rates.—Canada Lumberman.

North Snowdon

Mr. George Webb, of Minden, spent a few days this week at the home of Mrs. Newell.

Mrs. Daniel Gainforth, of Haliburton, spent last week at the home of her brother, Mr. James Dugan.

Mrs. J. Howe, of Haliburton, is visiting friends here.

Miss Mary Hughes, of Minden, spent Friday the guest of Miss Ida Dugan.

Mr. Wm. Dugan is busy erecting his barn.

Miss Allan, accompanied by Miss Susan Francis, of Gelert, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. J. Dugan.

We are all glad to welcome Mr. Robt. Shaw home from overseas.

Government money is being spent on the roads this week, but not before it was needed.

Mrs. Miller spent a few days with her daughter in Lindsay.

Make This a Day

Make this a day. There is no gain in brooding over days to come. The message of today is plain, The future's lips are ever dumb. The work of yesterday is gone— For good or ill, let come what may For now we face another dawn. Make this a day.

Though yesterday we failed to see The urging hand and earnest face The men call Opportunity, We failed to know the time or place For some great deed, what need to fret? The dawn comes up a silver gray, And golden moments must be met, Make this a day.

This day is yours; your work is yours The odds are not who pays your hire The thing accomplished that endures If it be what the day require. He who takes up his daily round, As one new armoured for the fray Tomorrow steps on solid grounds. Make this a day.

The day is this; the time is now; No better hour was ever here— Who waits upon the when and how Remains forever in the rear, Though yesterday was hard and rough Your feet may still seek out the way Tomorrow is not soon enough— Make this a day.

His Thought

"That young man stayed very late again Edith."
"Yes, papa; I was showing him my picture post-cards."
"Well, the next time he wants to stay late, you show him some of my electric-light bills."—Boston Transcript.

Bay of Quinte Conference Elects Rev. W. P. Rogers.

After a very close contest Rev. W. Pomeroy Rogers, B.A., of Napanee, was elected president of Bay of Quinte Conference on the second ballot. Rev. Chas. H. Coon, of Lindsay, was a very strong rival. Both these men have rendered yeomen service in this conference. The secretarial work fell to the lot of Rev. John R. Butler, of Warkworth, on the first ballot, and Revs. J. F. Chapman, B.A., and George C. R. McQuade were appointed assistant secretaries. A new feature of the opening of Conference was a sermon delivered by Rev. Dr. Allen, of Detroit. Truly he brought a helpful message to the Conference. Dr. Allen believes that the Church must "drive right on" with the gospel of Jesus Christ, and that the result will be a strength superior to the gates of hell. The public service held in the Tabernacle last evening was addressed by Rev. F. W. Foley, Rev. F. Langford of Toronto, and Rev. Dr. Scott of Belleville. Mr. W. L. Payne occupied the chair.

Closed Down the Works

The Midland shipyards have paid off the balance of its 305 employees and closed their plant as a protest against the demands of its workers, who walked out ten days ago. Daily conferences were held between the strikers and the company, the latter offering to turn over to the men the boat for the British Government now on the way, for completion by a date to be agreed upon and the proceeds divided. All overtures were fruitless, and the plant was closed. Its weekly payroll was $9,000.—The Canadian, Parry Sound

About the House

Helping Daughter Dress Correctly.

When a new dress is to be made for daughter it is so much easier to go ahead and buy the cloth and select the pattern one's self than to co-operate daughter regarding it, that more often than not the dress is made regardless of the wearer's wishes in the matter. Many farm girls become so used to wearing whatever mother makes or buys, relying so absolutely on mother's taste to be correct, that when they leave home and are thrown on their own responsibility, they find that they know nothing about cost of materials, suitability of colors or correctness of style. Too many times they spend their money on cheap, gaudy things, or else wear dowdy, unbecoming clothes.

Part of every girl's training should consist in learning the lesson of clothes, and the first steps along that line should be taken as soon in the little girl's life as she can understand the most simple of instructions.

If you are making school dresses, get samples of different materials and ask daughter to choose that which she would like. Doubtless she will make a wrong choice, selecting the most unsuitable. But don't laugh at her; don't make her ashamed. Endeavor to show her her error in a way she can understand. Get her to tell you what qualities, in her opinion, a school dress should have. Of course, you know it should wear well, wash well and not show soil too easily, and not be readily torn; but she may never have thought of those things. Let each sample, then, be analyzed to meet those requirements.

When the suitable material has been selected, attention should be turned to the cloth's suitability to the child in question. The color must be one in which she looks well and the pattern appropriate for her age. By suggestion, display and study familiarize her with these requirements, and you will develop in her a taste for simple, well made clothes she would be far less apt to have were she continually wearing dresses with no thought as to why they were of such a color or material or cut in such a way.

Though the desirability of simple cut be impressed upon her, do not confound simplicity with plainness. A simply cut dress finished at neck and sleeves with a bit of lace, or brightened by contrasting material in banding or piping, is attractive, but a plain dress, absolutely devoid of all "finishing touches" is actually homely, and in all but the poorest of families, wholly unnecessary. Teach the value of these simple means of finishing a dress. Contrast the severely plain dress with the slightly trimmed one. Also, when opportunity presents itself, point out the mistake of overtrimming. A dress half covered with lace and ribbons and ornamental buttons is not only in bad taste, but is generally mere cheap display.

If daughter lends a hand at the washing and ironing she will learn even more about the materials her dresses are made of, and will quickly see why the dainty little party dress would never do for school wear, and why, also, mother desires her to wear soft crepe underwear in summer in preference to that which requires starching and ironing.

It takes time, of course, to teach these things, and there are but few farm mothers whose time is not limited; yet other things can better be slighted than the opportunity of teaching your daughter all you know and can learn about the why and wherefore of the clothes she wears. When she grows up and finds work away from home, you will forget the dust that showed on your chairs, the stove that needed blacking, and the many other duties neglected, to seek her opinion and work with her on her clothes, in the satisfaction you have of seeing her on her home-visits wisely, becomingly, yet economically dressed.

Refrigerators Preserve Food.

The principle of scientific food preservation involved in a modern household refrigerator is not always understood by housewives. All that is necessary to preserve food is to keep it at a dry temperature low enough to protect it from micro-organisms or bacteria, which want to consume it as food just as we do, but which if allowed to work quickly render it unfit for human consumption.

These bacteria lie dormant when the air is kept cold and dry, but they grow rapidly in water, hence it is necessary to keep the air in a refrigerator from becoming moist. The drier the air the better the food keeps. Circulation of the air is therefore an important feature, and the walls of the ice-box are insulated so that the cold air will be kept in.

It is necessary for the ice to melt in order to chill the air properly. As the melting goes on the refrigerator is chilled and the food absorbs the cold. Thus while wrapping ice in a newspaper or flannel will undoubtedly keep it from melting, it defeats the purpose of the refrigerator, and withholds the cold from the food. A steady melting must go on, and the modern refrigerator is built to keep the melting to a necessary minimum, although precautions should be taken to see that the ice-box does not stand where the sun's rays strike it. Nor should it stand near the fire.

Cold air falls and warm air rises, and the coldest place is below the ice instead of above. Milk, butter and foodstuffs which really absorb moisture should therefore be placed so that the cold air reaches them direct from the ice, passing from them to those foods like melons and onions which give off odors.

Do Not Permit Faultfinding at the Table.

To have a comment made on dishes at the table, as too much or too little seasoning, etc., is a habit into which many families unconsciously fall. It is very trying to the housewife, and besides has a tendency to make the food appear less inviting, and gives a depressing effect, as all fault-finding does.

One mother noticed that this habit was growing on her children, and determined that some way must be found to stop it. She called a family meeting and told them that she did her best to have the food and table just as nice as she could, and that they should do their part and be kind and polite, keep still about any dish they did not especially like. She emphasized the fact that criticism at the table was not good manners.

She told them that if they had anything special to criticize they could come to her alone after the meal and she would be glad to listen to the complaint. But strange to say, being forbidden to criticize at the table, the children made very few private comments.

From that time on the mother was careful not to criticize any dish herself, and did not allow it done by the others. She was watchful, however, that every thing was well cooked, and the habit of fault-finding at the table in that family has entirely ceased.

Oil Lamps.

Our house is lighted by oil lamps and the work I hate most is cleaning the lamps. I have made it as easy as possible in the following way:

Turn the wick low before blowing out the light so it won't smoke so much.

Trim wicks and wipe burners every day, so they won't smoke and black the burners.

Set all the lamps in a row, open, before beginning to fill. Use a light can with a well-placed spout to pour oil from.

Wipe lamps with paper. Wet a sheet of newspaper and rapidly wash all the chimneys, setting them on the stove. Take off before too hot and wipe with newspaper.

Everything can be done rapidly in this way and lamps and chimneys will shine.

With the Fingers! Says Corns Lift Out Without Any Pain

Sore corns, hard corns, soft corns or any kind of a corn can shortly be lifted right out with the fingers if you will apply directly upon the corn a few drops of freezone, says a Cincinnati authority.

It is claimed that at small cost one can get a quarter of an ounce of freezone at any drug store, which is sufficient to rid one's feet of every corn or callus without pain or soreness or the danger of infection.

This new drug is an ether compound, and while sticky, dries the moment it is applied and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue.

This announcement will interest many women here, for it is said that the present high-heel footwear is putting corns on practically every woman's feet.

WARM PRAISE FROM BRITAIN.

The Motherland Expresses Profound Appreciation of Canada's Effort In Food Production.

Something that should have an important bearing on trade relations between the Motherland and Canada, whose opportuneness the Canadian Trade Commission impresses upon our business community, is the British public's warm appreciation of what was done by the Dominion in the war. The very name of Canada appears to strike a chord of sympathy, and to arouse a desire for closer association. It would be putting a somewhat ignominious and mercenary construction on this to state that it simply opens a new era for business connections across the ocean. Yet so curious is the Anglo-Saxon race to which we belong that it is exactly this feature which would appeal most to the practical British mind as the only consistent form in which the national sentiment could be expressed. More foodstuffs and still more produce of our vast farm lands could be sent to Great Britain where the consuming public learned in wartime to know that in times of stress food from under "the Old Flag" may always be relied upon. On their part they are doing all possible by granting a government preference as well as fostering private predilection for all goods from within the Empire.

If proof were wanted it would be found in the cordiality of the remarks recently published broadcast in English and Scottish newspapers of the British Food Controller, the Right Honorable George H. Roberts, M.P. (by the way, one of the finest types of the democratic, self-made labor men in the British Parliament). Mr. Roberts, after remarking that Canada had not found it necessary to adopt compulsory rationing in its food control methods, said:

"The measures adopted in Canada to increase production and conserve food, combined with the fact that the British Government was able to keep the sea route clear, made it possible for Great Britain and her allies to overcome what was their greatest enemy, insufficiency of food. In 1918 the situation was very critical and food became as important a problem as that of munitions. For example, in December, 1917, France held supplies of wheat and flour sufficient only to meet the needs of its civilian population for about three days. It has been my privilege to become acquainted with the measures adopted by Canada, particularly during the last two years of the war, and I know the difficulties that had to be encountered, and the remarkable efficiency achieved. Production was thoroughly organized, and having regard to its enormous territory, its diverse conditions of climate, the few crowded towns and the sparse settlements, the achievements of Canada in furnishing food supplies at the gravest period of the war, have won for the Dominion an admission of deep obligation and profound appreciation."

An instance of the readiness and effectiveness of Canadian assistance, Mr. Roberts added, was in respect to butter. When the stock of butter in Great Britain fell abnormally and it was impossible to maintain the small weekly ration of one ounce a head, the Food Ministry was able to secure the whole butter output of Canadian creameries for six weeks, which meant the addition of 6 1/4 million lbs. to the available supplies.

"Although the Canadian Government did not hesitate to apply compulsory powers where necessary, it is interesting to observe that a great part of the splendid results ensued from propagandist appeals to the patriotism of the people. Producers were thereby stimulated to greater effort and consumers were induced to adopt voluntary rationing and so increase the surpluses available for export."

To a Water Lily.

Thy beauty, fragrance, grace and purity
Are unsurpassed in the domain of flowers,
So lavish is the Artist, whose fine powers Have here their climax. In thy essence, He Interprets and reveals the mystery
Of loveliness, which all the studious hours
Of man's aesthetic quest in Nature's bowers Cannot discern, though plied continually.
Fair mirror of the workmanship of God,
Reflect His likeness to our human sight,
Not seen directly, since it was too bright
For Amram's son, who held the magic rod
O'er the rubescent sea, and for us, too,
Until we shall, some day, be clothed anew.

The religion of the soldier is not built up with dogma. Dogma does little for the man facing death or for the wounded undergoing the cruellest of wounds.—Ralph Connor.

MURDERED BY MICROBES.

Over Twelve Million Deaths Resulted Through "Flu" Epidemic.

It is estimated that up to the present, over twelve million deaths have resulted from the greatest and worst of influenza epidemics.

An appalling death toll to be sure, but although the number of cases has been so gigantic, the percentage of deaths is not estimated to be more than seven or eight per cent. It must also be borne in mind that white races suffer less than black.

Fifty per cent. of the inhabitants of Northern Labrador perished during the winter from an epidemic of "flu." One village, with a population of over 200, was wiped out, while at another—Behron—only a few of the two hundred inhabitants were left to tend the sick and dispose of the bodies of the dead, medical aid being unobtainable.

In some South African kraals the deaths have numbered forty per cent. of the cases. In England they are hardly three per cent.

The greatest mortality from any disease at the present time is from cholera, of which there is an epidemic in Bombay. One in every two cases is fatal.

Smallpox among unvaccinated races is deadly in forty cases in a hundred. In Samoa smallpox broke out in the village of Hapaa, and killed one hundred out of four hundred. It was followed by tuberculosis, and at the end of twelve months there were only two survivors left.

In the Pacific Islands measles is terribly destructive, whilst in Madagascar, during a recent epidemic, 30 per cent. of those who caught measles died.

At its worst, scarlet fever kills ten per cent. Typhoid fever is much less to be feared nowadays than was the case twenty years ago. In the Sudan, in 1884, a very large proportion of our forces contracted it, and thirty-nine per cent. of all cases proved fatal. On the Nile, in 1898, when Kitchener smashed the power of the Mahdi, typhoid proved fatal to twenty-eight per hundred, and the average was much the same in the South African War.

The mortality from typhoid is now down to seventeen per cent. of cases, but inoculation appears likely to put an end altogether to this much-dreaded disease.

MAN WHO FOUND LILAC.

Frenchman Introduced Widespread Shrub to Europe.

There are men who in a lesser sphere have been givers of gifts which are enjoyed by millions, though their own names may have slipped out of the memory of the world.

Such a man was Ogier Ghiselin de Busbecq. He was born in the pleasant town of Comines, in Flanders, now half French, half Belgian, with the River Lys between, almost four hundred years ago and educated in that university at Louvain which now, alas, is laid low. Busbecq was a collector, and when he was sent by the Emperor Ferdinand as Ambassador to the Sultan Suleiman the Magnificent, on his return brought manuscript and coins and plants home to Vienna. And among these plants was the lilac.

ROSY CHEEKS AND GOOD HEALTH

Come Through Keeping the Blood in a Rich, Red and Pure Condition.

When a girl—or a woman—finds her color fading, when her cheeks and lips grow pale, and she gets short of breath easily and her heart palpitates after the slightest exertion, or under the least excitement, it means that she is suffering from anaemia—thin, watery blood. Headache and backache frequently accompany this condition, and nervousness is often present.

The remedy for this condition is to build up the blood, and for this purpose there is no medicine that can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They build up and renew the blood, bring brightness to the eyes, color to the cheeks, and a general feeling of renewed health and energy. The only other treatment needed is plenty of sunlight, moderate exercise and good, plain food. The girl or woman who gives this treatment a fair trial will soon find herself enjoying perfect health. Mrs. Hiram Shook, R.R. No. 1, Lyndhurst, says:—"I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for I believed they saved my daughter's life. She was in a terribly run down condition, pale, wan, and despondent, and people who saw her considered her in a decline. The doctor who treated her did not help her any, and then I decided to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. This decision proved a wise one, for before six boxes were used she was much better. I got six more boxes, and before they were gone she was in the best of health. When she began the use of the pills she weighed only 90 pounds, and under their use her weight increased to 127 pounds. I strongly urge all mothers of weak girls to give them Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from any dealer in medicine, or by mail post paid at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Bits About Bees.

The price of honey has made many of us think more of bees. And, as hardly anything is more interesting than the "busy bee," here is a little news about him—and her.

In a hive there are three kinds of bees—drones, workers, and the queen bee. Drones, and are the male bees. They are stungless—thanks for that!—and unlike other bees, have no pollen baskets—the fringe of stiff leg bristles on which pollen is conveyed to the hive.

The queen bee is the only fully-developed female bee in the hive. Only she, with her series of productive organs, can perpetuate the bee race. Kill all the queens, and there will be no bees and no honey.

The queen bee will lay from two to three thousand eggs daily in the season. She is the mother of all the other inmates in the hive, and can lay eggs to produce either drones or workers—as the fancy takes her.

The queen bee heads the bees when they issue to swarm. This takes place when the queen cell is capped; but should the weather be unsuitable the bees tear down the queen cells, and wait.

There's more in bees than their sting!

Luxuries of Modern Education.

Johnny handed the following note from his mother to the teacher one morning:

Dere Teacher. You keep tellin' my boy to breathe with his diafram. Maybe rich children has got diaframs, but how about when there father only makes one dollar and fifty cents a day and has got five children to keep? First, it's one thing, then it's another, and now it's diaframs. That's the worst yet.

The dress is cut from McCall Pattern 8656—5 sizes—6 months to 6 years, price 15 cents. The bit of embroidery is taken from McCall Transfer Pattern 884, blue or yellow, price 15 cents.

8649—This house dress may be developed from plain and figured percale; the pockets are roomy enough for one's bunch of keys. Medium size requires 4½ yards of 36-inch material and 1 yard of contrasting material. McCall Pattern 8649—8 sizes—34 to 44 inch bust measure, price 25c.

These patterns may be obtained from your local McCall dealer, or from the McCall Co., 70 Bond St., Toronto, Dept. W.

Compliment to Canadians.

A Belgian Salvation army worker whose letter appeared in the New York Herald Magazine for May 4th, in describing the withdrawal of the German army from Belgium, refers to the Canadians as well-equipped, well mounted soldiers, who were kind, quiet and gentlemanly men."

A Motto.

Over the choir loft of an old church in Nova Scotia hangs a yellowed motto which reads:
"See that what thou singest with thy lips thou dost believe in thine heart, and that what thou believest in thine heart thou dost show forth in thy works"—Tenth Decree of the Fourth Council of Carthage, A.D. 398.

KEEP CHILDREN HEALTHY

To keep children healthy the bowels must be kept regular and the stomach sweet. Nine-tenths of the ailments which afflict little ones are caused by derangements of the bowels and stomach. No other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets in guarding either the baby or growing child from the ills that follow a disordered condition of the bowels or stomach. They are a mild but thorough laxative and never fail to give results. Concerning them Mrs. W. B. Coolidge, Sarnia, Ont., says:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for over three years and have found them the best medicine I have ever used for my children. I never have any trouble giving them to my little ones and they have saved me many a doctor's bill. My advice to all mothers of little ones is to keep a box of the Tablets in the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

RECORD OF FRENCH FAMILY.

Thirteen Sons killed in War and Others Suffered Injuries.

Thirteen sons killed on the field of battle, three discharged with grave injuries, one wounded four different times, the father and one daughter summarily shot by the Germans for going to Lille to celebrate the centennial anniversary of a relative, and another daughter killed by a German shell at Dunkirk, is the record of the family of M. Vanhee, a French farmer of Reminghe, near Ypres.

M. Vanhee had thirty-six children, twenty-two sons and fourteen daughters, all of whom were living when the war broke out. One of his sons was valet to Pope Pius X.; he returned to France to fight and was wounded in each of four different engagements. One of the sons lost both legs, another returned from the front blind and deaf, and another underwent the trepanning operation.

GIRLS! WHITEN YOUR SKIN WITH LEMON JUICE

Make a beauty lotion for a few cents to remove tan, freckles, sallowness.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply you with three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Squeeze the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle, then put in the orchard white and shake well. This makes a quarter pint of the very best lemon skin whiter and complexion beautifier known. Massage this fragrant creamy lotion daily into the face, neck, arms and hands and just see how freckles, tan, sallowness, redness and roughness disappear and how smooth, soft and clear the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless, and the beautiful results will surprise you.

The Higher Learning.

The schoolmaster was calling on an indignant mother.

"For my part," babbled the good woman, "I can't deceive what on earth eddification is comin' to! When I was young, if a gal only understood the elims of distraction, provision, replenishing, an' the common dominator, an' knew all about the rivers an' their obituaries, the currents, an' the dormitories, the provinces an' umpires, they had eddication enough!"

MONEY ORDERS.

Send a Dominion Express Money Order. They are payable everywhere.

Editions and Additions.

Private Pigley's people were good to him, but after receiving a pocket service book, a pocket Bible, a pocket album, a pocket French dictionary and a pocket edition of the poets he thought it time to say something. So he sent his mother a postcard. It read:

"Please send no more pocket editions until I get some pocket additions."

Disappearing Lake.

In Georgia, near Vladosta, there is a lake which disappears every three or four years and then comes back again, no matter what the weather is like.

The lake is three miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide, with an average depth of 12 feet of water. There are natural subterranean passages beneath it, through which the water passes off.

It takes two or three weeks to disappear, when a mammoth basin is left in its place, which furnishes a beautiful sandy beach. After a month or so the water begins to return, and then in a couple of weeks it is the same magnificent stretch of water as it was before.

THERE IS ONLY ONE GENUINE ASPIRIN

ONLY TABLETS MARKED WITH
"BAYER CROSS" ARE ASPIRIN.

If You Don't See the "Bayer Cross" on the Tablets, Refuse Them—They Are Not Aspirin At All.

Your druggist gladly will give you the genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" because genuine Aspirin now is made by Canadians and owned by a Canadian Company.

There is not a cent's worth of German interest in Aspirin, all rights being purchased from the U.S. Government.

During the war, acid imitations were sold as Aspirin in pill boxes and various other containers. But now you can get genuine Aspirin, plainly stamped with the safety "Bayer Cross"—Aspirin proved safe by millions for Headache, Toothache, Earache, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Colds, Neuritis, and Pain generally.

Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets, also larger "Bayer" packages.

Aspirin is the trade mark, registered in Canada, of Bayer Manufacture of Monoacetic-acidester of Salicylicacid.

A Cure for Pimples

"You don't need mercury, potash or any other strong mineral to cure pimples caused by poor blood. Take Extract of Roots—druggist calls it 'Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup'—and your skin will clear up as fresh as a baby's. It will sweeten your stomach and regulate your bowels." Get the genuine. 50c. and $1.00 Bottles. At drug stores.

Wash Out Your Pores With Cuticura Soap

And have a clear, sweet, healthy skin with little trouble and trifling expense. Contrast this simple wholesome treatment with tiresome massaging and other fads. On retiring smear the face with Cuticura Ointment on the end of the finger, wash off in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water, using plenty of soap, best applied with the hands which it softens wonderfully, and continue bathing a few moments.

Rinse with tepid water, dry gently and dust on a few grains of Cuticura Talcum Powder, a delicate fascinating fragrance. Soap, Ointment and Talcum sold everywhere.

THE POLICE FORCE OF THE BODY

DAY and night—without ceasing—a struggle is going on in your body between the germs of disease and the white blood corpuscles—the police force of the human body.

If this police force weakens, disease germs gain a foothold—sickness follows.

Constipation is the most common and dangerous way of corrupting the human police force. Food waste remains too long in the intestines—decays—poisons the blood—and opens the way for attack by the germs that cause tuberculosis, diphtheria, pneumonia and a multitude of other ills.

The culpable habit of using salts, pills, mineral waters, castor oil, etc., to force the bowels to move, makes this condition even worse, as constipation returns almost immediately.

Nujol is entirely different from drugs as it does not force or irritate the bowels.

Nujol prevents stagnation by softening the food waste and encouraging the intestinal muscles to act naturally, thus removing the cause of constipation and self-poisoning. It is absolutely harmless and pleasant.

Nujol helps Nature establish easy, thorough bowel evacuation at regular intervals—the healthiest habit in the world.

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today and keep your police force on the job.

Warning: Nujol is sold in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. All druggists insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

GENERAL

A street car strike is on in Toronto and automobiles are busy.

Fourteen millions have been already loaned to war veterans who purpose taking up farming.

It was feared the Germans might not sign the treaty and the allied army was in readiness. The British fleet was also prepared.

Fearful but unrepentant, Germany has accepted the peace terms unconditionally, sending a characteristic note in which reference is made to devastating the German people of their "honor."

Two deaths resulted from the Winnipeg riots, but upwards of a hundred were injured.

Report says the German warships which were not surrendered to the allies and which were anchored at Keil and other points, have been sunk by German sailors manning them.

Forty-four persons arrested at Winnipeg were released on bail of $1,000 each

It is said that more than a hundred homes were leveled and that the Great Northern train was blown from the tracks only the engine and one car remaining on the rails, the cyclone being very severe at Fergus Falls, Minn., June 22nd.

It is said that the German sailors were shot by their own officers when they attempted to obey the commands of the British officers to return to their ships and shut the seacocks, when the surrendered German fleet was being sunk at Scapa Flow. Four or five Germans turned back and three were shot dead. The officers were then fired upon and several of them dropped. The British drove the Germans back to four or five other destroyers in time to keep the vessels afloat.

Daughters go on Rolls

By the new Assessment Act which comes into effect this year farmer's daughters, who are over twenty-one years of age, are to be entered on the assessment roll and copied into the voters' list with the letters "F.D." after their names giving them the right to vote at municipal elections, the same as farmers' sons were over forty years ago.—Bancroft Times.

PLEASE!

It means a great deal to The Minden Echo for its friends to send their renewal subscriptions promptly. Nothing is more important to a publisher than to have a "clean list," that is, to have as few as possible in arrears. The trouble and expense involved in looking after the procrastinating subscriber is a drain upon the resources that would be prevented by the co-operation of the readers. No extra trouble or expense is incurred by the subscriber. It needs only a little thoughtfulness, and some consideration for the management. Watch the date on the address label. It is only fair and it is quite as reasonable for the publisher to expect his money every year, as it is for the subscriber to expect his paper every week.

DIVIDED FOOD WITH INDIANS

Splendid Spirit of Self-Sacrifice Shown by Party of White Travellers in the Far North.

The day of adventure, romance and sentiment in the wilds, is recalled by the arrival at Quebec a couple of days ago of two men and a woman, the wife of one of the men, after a 1000-mile drive by dog sledge across Ungava in 50 days. When the party arrived at the first outpost on the brim of civilization the first act was to replenish food supplies which were completely exhausted, and all hands with an appetite. Then the trio pushed forward again after the first meal in almost a month, because halfway across the white wastes the party discovered ten Indian families slowly starving, with no one to go for food and no one to bring any to them.

The sledge party was provisioned to the ounce for its trip of almost two months but could not leave without doing something—although pitifully little—for the starving Indians. Another careful calculation was made and each of the three consented to live on the least possible ration and take a chance on accident or loss of supplies by storm or other means. All except what the party believed would sustain life against the cold was left with the Indians and when the travelers reached the first outpost they had been some time without food and were strenuously hungry. The food supply of the dogs could not be reduced, as the only hope of safety for the party was in the "huskies," so the humans ate practically nothing while the dogs got their regular allowance. The story of the long drives across the northern snow fields is familiar in modern fiction but occasionally a narrative of fact as in this case presents reading that maintains the essence of adventure and romance quite as well. The spirit that surrenders food to starving savages or barbarians, midway of a 900-miles journey over endless snow with no surer guarantee of safety than the willingness of a team of dogs is that which underlies the world struggle in Europe.

Remember.

When the war is over, no excuse will go.

Either you were in it or you were not.

Either you shouldered your gun, served in the trenches or the navy, or the Young Men's Christian association, the Red Cross or in some place where the door was opened, or else you did nothing.

If you could not yet serve, you could send your boys with a Godspeed, as they marched out to the front. To hold them back stamped them as slackers.

Either you strained your resources to buy Liberty bonds or you forgot your obligation to those who fought and died for your flag.

Disqualification for active service is no justification for forgetting the boys behind the guns who sacrificed all thought of gain and were willing to sacrifice their lives at their country's call.

The war will be fought to the bitter end. The Hun will be crushed. Peace will come. The flag will fly and freedom will win. If you do your part, however small, you will share in the glory. If you fail to do your little bit, nothing but remorse will be in store for you Better Ports in Europe.

The beautiful harbor of Naples is to be much improved by the extension of docks and a general broadening of its immense natural capacity. More than one French port has been raised from minor usefulness to first-rate importance. Even Bordeaux has profited greatly. And all these immense new utilities will remain as a monument, in part at least, to American engineering efficiency and a liberal use of American money. We shall get full value from them all, and it is pleasant to think that they will also become a lasting benefit to our friends. Our own home ports, both Atlantic and Pacific, have already felt the stimulus, and will continue to grow under it. New York must inevitably be the greatest shipping point of all the world without exception, as time goes on. And the enormous new American tonnage now being launched will not go into the scrap-heap when peace comes Forgot the Laundry.

They were on an interurban car bound for the big city. One of them, the son of a banker, had been entrusted with a bundle containing $5,000 in bills. The bundle was wrapped in a newspaper. Being young, the bearers of the treasure fell to talking of girls and things and when they arrived at the station both got up and started away without the bundle.

"Hey, you fellows," a man who had been sitting back of them shouted.

"Hey, boys, you've forgot your laundry."

It need not be guessed that the boys double-quickened back for the "laundry."—Indianapolis News.

1.00, 50 cts., 25 cts. a Day
FOREVER GONE!

If you were to lose $1.00, 50c or even 15c a day having a hole in your pocket, how long would it be before you had that pocket fixed? The man that has four or five cows and no Separator is losing $1.00 a day. The man that has two or three cows is losing 50 cents a day by not having a Separator. The man that is using a cheap makeshift separator with four or five cows is losing 25 cents a day. The loss of 25 cents a day would buy a

DE LAVAL SEPARATOR in a year.

Does It Pay to Buy a Cheap Separator?

I know a party who bought a De Laval Separator five years ago and he hasn't spent one cent of repairs. His neighbor bought one of the "just as good" separators and spent $20 for repairs, to say nothing about the loss of cream

Does It Pay to Buy a Cheap Separator?

There is a De Laval near Minden that has been in use about 18 years without a cent of repairs. Does it pay to buy a cheap Separator? Don't let the price of a good Separator get in front of your eyes so that you can't see through it. Look right ahead and see what is in store for the man with a good Separator with butter fat at 65 cents. The De Laval is not built down to a price. It is built to satisfy the people that want value for their money.

Remember, you can't get something for nothing. You that have just bought a cheap separator will say, I am not losing 25 cents a day. Your time will come—wait till you have used it a year or two. A Separator that wouldn't work when new, and I know of some that didn't—are not worth hauling home. Seven 6 gal. cans of cream testing 50 per cent, will buy a No. 12 DE LAVAL SEPARATOR.

OBITUARY.

Ms. J. S. Hill

The very sudden death, at her family residence, Lochlin, of Mrs. Jno. S. Hill, aged 52 years, 6 months and 13 days, has plunged the entire community in sorrow, as the deceased lady was very popular and had a host of friends.

She was the eldest daughter of the late lamented Elias Vincent and Mrs. Vincent, of Ingoldsbys, who still survives; and her life has been an exemplary one. The church, of which she was a life long member, by her death, loses one of its most active workers. No picnic or Sunday School entertainment seemed to be complete without her, and she will be greatly missed in social circles.

Her health had not been the best for some time, but she was able to attend to various duties until Saturday evening, when she suffered an attack of heart weakness and passed away in less than an hour.

She had welcomed her only son home from overseas on Tuesday and had arranged special treats for him, some of her plans being still in anticipation when the call came.

Her family consists of her sorrowing husband, her son Harold, and the following daughters: Mrs. Geo. Pringle, of Lochlin; Mrs. Chas. Ferguson, of Cobourg; the Misses Violet and Muriel, at home; besides Miss Mabel Herbert, an adopted daughter.

Mrs. A. Hicks and Mrs. F. Cook, of Lochlin; Mrs. Albert Loucks and Mrs. Wilbert Archer, of Ingoldsbys; and Mrs. J. Connor, of Little Britain, are sisters of deceased, while Mr. T. H. Vincent, of Ardath, Sask., is an only brother.

The funeral on Tuesday was exceedingly large and took place to Ingoldsbys Methodist church for service, thence to Ingoldsbys cemetery for interment, the service being in charge of Rev. J. M. Whyte, of Bobcaygeon, assisted by Rev. G. C. Grant, of Haliburton.

Present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Connor, of Little Britain; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ferguson, of Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. E. Rodman, Mrs. Jos. Tinney and daughter, of Oakwood. Sympathy is general.

MRS. BARRY, SR.

The death of Mrs. Barry, Sr., in her 85th year, took place at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. Horsley, of West Guilford, on Saturday morning last after two months' illness, during which time she gradually weakened, passing away without a struggle.

Deceased moved with her late husband to Guilford Township some thirty-eight years ago, and for several years during the latter part of her life resided with her son William, near Minden, where she had many friends and was much respected.

Her sons are James, George, William, Christopher, Mathias, Frank and Thomas, all of whom reside in the vicinity of the old home in Guilford, except William, who lives near Minden, and Thomas of British Columbia. The daughters are Mrs. Boden, of Scottville, Mich., Mrs.

Schneider, of West Guilford, and Mrs. Schrader, of Minden. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon to the Methodist Cemetery, Maple Lake.

Fire Destroys Nitrogen Plant At Trenton.

Fire broke out at 2.30 Tuesday morning at the plant formerly operated by the Imperial Munitions Board under the name of the British Chemical Co., recently taken over by a Chicago firm. The nitrogen plant was destroyed entailing a heavy loss fortunately covered by insurance. There was no one working in the nitrogen plant when the fire broke out. It is reported that one hundred men recently engaged at the plant will be thrown out of employment. Bancroft Times.

Quite a number motored from town to Lindsay to see the circus.

The Misses Annie Archer and Mildred Hawkins, of Haliburton, were visitors here early this week.

Mr. A. Palmer was a delegate to the C.O.O.F. Grand Lodge at Hamilton last week and returned bearing the honor of having been appointed Grand Chaplain.

—Come and celebrate with us Dominion Day and enjoy the sports. If in need of anything in Men's Toggery. See what we can show you in Tootie Sport Shirts, Fine Shirts, Tennis Shoes, Fancy Sox, Neckties, Braces, Caps and Straw Hats. A snap in Men's Oxford at $3.45, at Soward's Central Cash Store.

Mrs. Wellington Ross and her son Charles, accompanied by Miss L. Millin, of Calgary, Alta., motored through and are visiting Minden friends, accompanied by Mrs. James Ross, of Toronto.

Mrs. McGillivray accompanied her husband from Cardiff to Minden this week and was the guest of Mrs. N. Rogers and other friends during the session of the County Council.

Mr. J. H. Burns is a visitor in Toronto till Monday, when he goes through to Brantford, to attend a meeting of the 'Old Boys' Reunion.

—If you own a Kodak let us supply your films and—we also send films away for developing and printing, enlarging, etc. Good work done and prompt service. Developing films to cents a roll, Printing 3 cents print up to 3x5. Glossy prints 1 cent extra. All standard sizes Eastman Kodak films, Developing supplies, etc., at Soward's Central Cash Store.

Mr. Lorne Loucks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Loucks, who has been ill since March and was improving nicely, was compelled to take his bed again last week, but is again recovering.

Mr. Joseph Alsop and son, of Ursa, were visitors here during the week. We understand while here they purchased Mr. Wm. Barry's farm.

Inspector White was in town and interviewed the County Council on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Soutar are entertaining their grandson, Lance-Corp. M. Hughes, who is home from overseas after some three years' service in the 72nd Seaforth Highlanders.

Corp Victor Hollefreundy, who enlisted in the fighting 59th and saw nearly four years service overseas, arrived safely Wednesday evening, looking as well as when he went away.

—Now is the time to get your needs in Haying Tools—Sampson Scythes, Snathes, Scythe Stones, Hayforks and Hayfork rope. Protect your potato crop by killing the bugs. We have Paris Green 3 and 1 lb. packages. Bug-O-Cide in 1 lb. packages at 60 cents. This is strongly recommended in place of Paris Green. Try a package, at Soward's Central Cash Store.

Messrs. John Gregory and Roy Archer accompanied Mr. James Hutchings, of Haliburton, on a visit to this place one day this week.

We offer our congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Rogers, whose son, Rev. W. P. Rogers, was appointed to the honorable place as President of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist Church.

Messrs. A. S. Hopper, of Toronto, representing the Y. M. C. A., T. J. Tilly, Lindsay, and P. M. Chamberlain, Toronto, in the interests of the G. W. V. A. appeared before the County Council here this week.

—Just opened this week, a piece of 3 yard wide Congoleum in a nice, neat pattern. This will often cover a floor without a seam. At $3.50 a yard for full width, it comes cheaper than Linoleum and will give good service. We have the patterns in Linoleum, Oilcloth Floortex, at Soward's Central Cash Store.

Pte. A. Steele, who enlisted in the 109th and served in the transport service in England and France, was welcomed home a few days ago.

We have learned during the week that returned soldiers are authorized to go to any practising physician for free treatment.

Mr. J. K. Hughes, of the De Laval Co., was a visitor in town this week in company with Mr. R. G. Haight, the local agent.

A subscriber in Sask. says "Send us up a drink. We haven't had enough rain to give one's face a good wash, let alone having a bath."

—From recent reports, Paint will go higher, so don't wait for lower prices but do your painting now. Lowe Bros. Paints have no equal for quality appearance, spreading capacity and wearing qualities. We have a full line of House Colors, Floor Paint, Carriage Gloss, Wagon and Implement Paint or Varnish for every purpose. Ask for color cards at Soward's Central Cash Store.

Warden Curry, of Haliburton, sprung a surprise on the County Council by stating that he had resigned his position as Reeve of Dysart, etc., and his position as Warden would therefore cease. An election will be held in Dysart, with nomination on Saturday, July 5th, and it is hoped here that the electors will re-elect Mr. Curry, as he is a capable man. Reeve McGillivray, of Cardiff was elected Warden in place of Reeve Curry, resigned.

We are pleased to hear that Mr. Seymour-Taylor's son James has arrived safely home from overseas, after nearly three years at the front, where he was in most of the large engagements with his unit. He went overseas with the 109th and was transferred to the 124th, and served with the 11th Bn. Canadian Engineers.

Mr. Brownlee's auction sale at the Riverside store will be worth attending. The articles to be offered are said to be good. Don't forget the date—Saturday afternoon, 28th inst.

Miss Maude Hughes, who was very ill at the home of Mr. Robt. Moore, Carnarvon, is reported improving nicely.

Farmer Hung Himself From Stable Beam.

The Mail and Empire

Newmarket, June 19.—Eanos Rogers, aged 59 years, a farmer in good financial standing, who had lived on the fourth concession of East Gwillimbury all his life, was found hanging dead in his stable this morning at 8 o'clock. He had taken his breakfast with his family, and seemed normal at that time, though it is said that he had been acting strangely for some time past. He is survived by his widow and one son, a boy of 12 years. Coroner Dr. Stewart Scott, of Newmarket, will hold an investigation.

A farm laborer, whose name is not given, is reported to have been found this morning with his throat gashed by a razor in a barn on the East Gwillimbury town line, 100 yards from the Newmarket town limits.

Scott Man Hangs Himself

While temporarily insane, Isaac D. Pegg, a respected resident of Scott township, living on lot 1, con. 1, hanged himself Tuesday morning in his barn with a chain.

Last fall his wife died, and a few weeks ago his daughter had to undergo an operation for appendicitis. These and other troubles seem to have affected his mind, signs of which have been noticed for a month.

Tuesday morning he got up about five o'clock and went for the cows. When his two sons went to the barn at 5.45 they noticed he had not fed the horses, as he usually did, and they discovered him, dead. Dr. Shier, coroner, Uxbridge, was sent for but an inquest unnecessary.—Uxbridge Journal.

Two Bears

A visitor to a Sunday school was asked to address a few remarks to the children. He took the familiar theme of the children who mocked Elisha on his journey to Bethel—how the young ones taunted the prophet, and how they were punished when two bears came out of the woods and ate forty and two of them.

"And now, children, could we, would we, does this story show?"

"Please, sir," came from a little girl in the front row, "It shows how many children two bears can hold."—Selected.

Wash The Kidneys!

After Bad Colds or Influenza
Look to Kidneys and Bladder!

Owing to bad colds, over-eating or intemperance, or to the after effects of influenza—uric acid and toxins (poisons) are stored up in the body and cause backache, lumbago, rheumatic pains and stiff joints.

It is most essential that treatment be directed towards prompt casting out of the poisons from the body which cause these pains and aches. This means that the excretory organs—the bowels, skin and kidneys—should be excited to their best efforts. Every one should clean house—internally—and thus protect one's self from many germ diseases, by taking castor oil or a pleasant laxative such as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which are made of May-apple, aloes and jalap. Take these every other day. This will excite efficient bowel action. If you suffer from backache, irritation of the bladder and the kidneys, shown by the frequent calls to get out of bed at night, considerable sediment in the water, brick-dust deposit, perhaps headache in the morning, you should obtain at the drug store "Anuric" (anti-uric acid), first put up by Dr. Pierce.

To build up the strength and improve the blood, take an iron tonic such as "Ironite," manufactured by Dr. Pierce, to be had in tablets at drug stores, or some good herbal tonic such as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, made from wild roots and barks without alcohol, and put up in tablets or liquid.

"SALADA"

on a Sealed Packet is Your Safeguard.

The Gunner's Mate Spins a Yarn

By N. W. JENKINS.

"You see," said the Gunner's Mate to me, "all these stunts soldiers and sailors pull off in time of war, and gets crosses and medals for, don't amount to a row of beans. It's just a part of their regular job. A soldier ain't afraid of getting shot. It's all in the day's work, and he's some surprised every time it don't happen to him. No sailor man cares shucks about gettin' drowned. It's the natural way to die, for a sea sucker like him. Them Germans who thought they could scare the British Navy with their little old U-boats had another think comin'."

"But every man is afraid of something, away down in his heart. When he goes out and faces the thing, cool and quiet, I calls that brave. I did a middlin' brave act myself one time. 'Mate, there's one thing I'm afraid of—sickness. Death I can put up with, but sickness—the very thought gives me jimjams. I was always And of all sorts of sickness, always scared me a smallpox. 'The kind of awful to collect."

"I was doctored, but my ship bein' out, As I hadn't had long time, there was a rough comin' to me. And, to spend money where I had a pretty good roll I was in luck. I used to go to a clothing factory to make up to the as that worked there. I foolin' I got mine. Fell for the prettiest kid I ever see. Name me eyes. Light hair that about bein' jacked up, on Neat, brim— I looked at me kind of special. I hauled down my colors I you know. I told her to call me Jack, for I was ashamed to let her know the dirt my folks done by callin' me Elijah. Didn't name marryin' in so many words, but you may bet your boots she knew how the land lay."

"She was an unpertected orphan. I liked that, for I never cared much about in-laws, and I was competent for the pertectin' myself. So I counted up my roll, got my furlough, and calculated to spend both on Daisy."

"Next day, when I dropped into the factory, I seen another girl at my girl's machine. A wall-eyed female, painful to look at."

"How's this?" says I. "Where's Daisy?"

"You Daisy's beau?" she asks.

"That's as it may be," says I, non-committal.

"I knew it," says the female. "Oh, you poor, poor young man!"

"Explain yourself—do!" says I.

"You'll never see Daisy no more," says she hysterical. "Daisy is took."

"Took where? To jail?"

"Worse—whole lot worse! Took to the pesthouse. She's got the smallpox, and they took her this morning. She'll die—nobody ever come out of that pesthouse any way but feet foremost."

"Out of that place I flashed like a streak of lightning. Knew I had to act, and act quick. I had heard things about that pesthouse. Maybe they wasn't all true. Half of 'em was enough, with Daisy there, and scared to death, as I knew she must be."

"I found my bunkie, a smart lad named Harrison. We trailed out and spotted that place where my girl was. Then we nosed around the country thereabouts till we found a little cabin on the edge of a lonesome wood. We could tell no one had lived in it for an age, by the way the vines was tied and knotted together across the door. I took possession of that shack in the name of the British Navy, and then I hiked back to town and bought me a lot of stuff—a canvas cot, and pillow and blankets and comfortable and sheets, an ax, a broom, a kettle, a pot, a water bucket, matches, tea, sugar, crackers, canned milk and soup, and a lot of eggs, which fell by the wayside and got smashed. But the rest of the dunnage my bunkie and I managed to smuggle out of town and into the deserted shack."

"It was just like settin' up house-keepin' or goin' out West in the old days, only it wasn't no fun—thinkin' looked too darn serious. Harrison, who was awful handy with himself, opened up the house, swept and aired it, made up the bed, and cut a stack of firewood and brush. When he was gone back to the yard, he not bein' on furlough, I set with my head in my hands by the big fire he left for me, and my thoughts was terrible. He shook hands with me when he went, and I think he figgered on comin' back to get the remains."

"I set there that night till it seemed likely the majority of honest folks was in bed and asleep. Then I built up the fire roarin', and I lit out for the pesthouse."

"It was the loneliest sight I ever see—that big, ugly frame house a-settin' up by itself on long legs in the middle of an old field, with a cold full moon lookin' down on it from the sky. No other house of no kind was in sight. Not a glim was showin'—unless you counted the lights in the navy yard, and they were three miles away."

"I brought along a club, two lengths of rope, and a blanket. The blanket was for Daisy, and the ropes and club for the watchman. But I didn't have to club the old guy, as it turned out—he bein' asleep. I tied him up good, and it didn't take me long to locate Daisy, who was sobbin' softly to herself in her cot. Her hand was like a little live coal for fever. I said to her quick, before she could be scared of me:

"It's me, Daisy, come to take you away. It's your Jackie—your own boy."

"Maybe she didn't know I was her own before that, but she knew it then. What small show of fight the night nurse put up didn't count. I wrapped my girl up in the blanket I had brought, and carried her off like a hawk carries a chicken."

"When I had tucked her up in the nice bed I had already for her, I gave her a steamin' cup of tea. Maybe she was goin' to die anyhow, but she had a chance now to die like a lady, and not like a rat in a trap."

"I hadn't forgot to buy a doctor's book, and when my darlin' fell asleep I studied that good and hard where it told what was good for smallpox."

"Every day my bunkie came to an old blazed tree, and I stood off and shouted to him how things were and what I wanted him to bring from town for me. Next day he would bring it."

"Once in a while I took the patient's tempyrchoor. Don't know what good it done, but the book said to do it. I kept a rubber hot-water bag to her feet when they was cold, and I gave her all it said she ought to have. I talked to her like a Dutch uncle, and she done everything I tell her like she was my baby, which she was."

"Did she get well?" I asked.

"Sure she got well! And I never took the smallpox."

"Some luck!"

"Greenhorn's luck. I never was no doctor before or since. That one time I was a swell doctor. The day she was all safe, according to the book, I made my bunkie put some clean clothes for me under the blazed tree. I put 'em on after I'd gone swimmin' and cut my hair. Then I went to town and bought riggin' for Daisy. I knew how to pick out some nice shoes and silk stockin's, and I got a blue flannel sailor's sweetheart, also a big black tie. I told the young lady I bought them from:

"You put in the right kind of underpinning to go with these accordin' to specifications."

"And she understood and put in everything needful. So I got a lot for Daisy, and I went to the shack and put on a b'ler of water, and made myself scarce till she bathed and dressed; and gee, didn't she look sweet."

"Then I set fire to the old shack, and we watched it burn down. Afterwards I hunted up the owner and lied an said I had set fire to it by accident while I was huntin', and offered to pay the price. He said I was too honest for those parts, and wouldn't take no money."

"The very day furlough was up, I went to the chaplin."

"Reverend," says I, "you got to splice us. I couldn't trust it done out of the service—a lifetime job like this!"

"So he spliced us."

"And you think you were pretty brave, eh?"

"Nary yellow streak in me that time."

"Deserve a medal or a cross eh?"

"No—I can't say that."

"Why not?"

"Cause I done better—I got a Daisy."

SEEING ACROSS OCEAN.

Long Range of Vision One of Delights of Aerial Travel.

The hill-top view is quite out of date. The views from such points of vantage as Leith Hill, the Wrekin, the Malvern Hills, and the top of Helvellyn or Snowdon, in good atmospheric conditions, have always been considered extensive; but the aerial traveller, the voyager of the sky, regards them as very restricted and meagre.

On a clear day the airman who rises to a height of twenty thousand feet, or even less, can see the estuary of the Thames on the one hand and the Bristol Channel on the other, a view across the whole of England from sea to sea.

London lies vast under a pall of smoke, Southampton and Portsmouth are beneath his feet, Bristol and Bath seemingly tiny villages to the westward, the Isle of Wight a tiny island in the far-stretching Channel, the coast of France a shadowy line bounding its farther side, the coast of England, with all its bays and promontories, like a great relief map, visible from the Straits of Dover.

This wonderful quality of aerial travel will be one of its greatest delights in the future, when aeroplanes are used for peace and not for war.

Men may still toll up the Matterhorn, or take the railway to the top of the Jungfrau, but if they want a big landscape they will go to the nearest aerodrome and adventure a high flight.

Antwerp diamond industry has restarted with 9000 workers.

THAT WICKED PRINTER.

Some of the Ludicrous Blunders He Has Made the World Laugh At.

Printers often pervert the power of the pen and turn tears into smiles by the change of a letter.

"Drunkness is jolly," said a dean in a temperance sermon duly reported in the local paper. What the dear man meant was that drunkenness was folly. But the printer was in playful mood, for lower down in the dean's discourse he omitted a comma, and the eminent divine stood again a self-confessed drunkard.

"Only last Sunday," he said, "a young man died suddenly, while I was endeavoring to preach the Word in a state of beastly intoxication."

Here is another "clerical error," culled from a parish magazine:

"There will be a collection in aid of the Arch Fiend."

The fiend of a printer should have put Arch Fund. Doubtless he prevented many old ladies of limited intelligence from putting their hands in their pockets.

The "war-scarred" veteran was the printer's improvement on the "war-scarred" variety which the writer had in mind. The young man who wrote that love-letters were a never-fading ink was really informing his financees that such epistles would form a never-fading link between them throughout their lives.

Imagine the dismay of the schoolmaster whose prospectus read thus: "The distinctive feature of the school is the roughness—" He was only referring to the thoroughness of his methods.

"Our impending fate, eclipse of empire, is bound up with the League of Nations," said a politician in a local paper recently.

Yet he was an ardent advocate of the League of Nations, and what he really said was that our impending fate, eclipse or empire, was bound up with it. In this mistake the printer was not to blame, but the reporter, who lost his job through the politician's fury. The latter's own poor elocution was probably to blame.

Punctuation, or the want of it, is prolific in humorous howlers. Here is one from an agricultural journal:

"Wanted, a woman to feed pigs with washing-board lodging over stables."

At first reading one is apt to wonder whether the pigs liked their washing-board, and whether they were all lodging over the stables together.

How to Dispose of Bares.

A municipal government official who had an easy-going doorkeeper was for a long time pestered by a bore. Finally he hit upon a plan to get rid of him for good.

"Dick, do you know why Collins continues to come here so regularly?" he asked.

"No, sir."

"Well, Dick, I don't mind telling you in confidence, he's after your job." From that day on the official was never troubled by the bore.

Not on the Map.

Tommy—"Papa, where is Atoms?" Father—"Atoms? I don't know, my boy. You mean Athens probably."

Tommy—"No, I mean Atoms—the place where everything is blown to."

British. Well Done! Giving Due Recognition To Others Who Helped.

WELL DONE, US!

IT IS HEREBY agreed that no one nation would have beaten Prussia, Bavaria, Saxony, Wurtemberg, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey.

IT IS FURTHER agreed that it was the gallant resistance of Belgium, the magnificent fighting qualities of the French, the devotion of the Russians, the valor of the Serbians, the resourcefulness and whole-hearted co-operation of the Americans, and the superb struggles of the Roumanians which enabled us to secure a victory over the enemy.

HAVING SAID THIS

The British have done it. The navy choked Fritz by the throat, and the army walloped the life out of him. We have fought the devil all over the world, we have beaten his legions in every latitude; we have financed the war and fought the war. We have carried the foodstuffs, the raw material and the soldiers, both our own and our allies, to and from the ends of the earth. We have fought a naval action which lasted for twenty-one months against a fleet of U-boats numbering over 300 from first to last, and we have destroyed two-thirds of that fleet. We met the full stroke of his offensive in March and April and smashed it. We carried the impregnable Hindenburg line. We invented and brought to perfection the arm which produced the decision of the war—the tank. We swept his aerial navies from the skies and blinded him. We have, single-handed, crushed the Turk and secured a complete military decision. We have fought four African wars and have been victorious. We have raised, equipped and maintained an army of 7,000,000, and have equipped a Russian army of 2,000,000. We have fought the Prussian, Bavarian, Saxon, Austrian, Turk, Bulgarian, Askari, Togoman and Bolshevik. We have established the Arab in Arabia and the Jew in Palestine.

BUT

IT IS HEREBY agreed that no one nation would have beaten Prussia, Bavaria, Saxony, Wurtemberg, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey.

STRIKERS AND MOUNTED POLICE BATTLE IN WINNIPEG STREETS

Action Followed Reading of Riot Act, When Strikers Persisted in Parading in Defiance of Proclamation—City Now as if Beleaguered—Armored Cars and Machine Guns in Evidence

Winnipeg, June 22.—One man was killed and approximately fifty injured in yesterday's riots. Thirteen of the injured were shot.

The tragic events of yesterday afternoon covered not more than half an hour. At half-past two, perhaps, 20,000 persons were massed on Main Street with their focus at the City Hall. For the most part they appeared to be strikers, with among them several thousand returned soldiers, and they were congregated to witness or take part in the "massed silent parade," which, it was announced last night at the meeting in Market Square of returned soldiers, would be put on by returned soldiers alone this afternoon as a last and final effort to break down the barriers the men claim have been erected against the propaganda of the general strike in Winnipeg.

On the whole this great mass was orderly. It contained many women, evidently of the strikers' families, but no children. Just before half-past two, a small riot developed on Market Street, just east of the City Hall Park, around a man who was drunk.

Trolley Pulled Off.

At five and twenty past two a street car passing on Main Street only made its way through the crowd amidst continual booing and with great difficulty, the trolley several times being pulled off the line. Evidently regarding the whole thing as a circus, a great stream of citizens in their automobiles passed at this critical moment up and down Main Street, by no means adding to the good feeling of what was fast developing into an angry mob. Sharp at half-past two the word passed along the crowd gathered in the wide thoroughfare of Main Street on each side of the car tracks—"fall in." At that very moment Portage Avenue car No. 596 approached from the north, about half-full of passengers, mostly women and children. As it reached Market Street it was greeted by a rolling roar of booing, its trolley was pulled off the line, and some stones were thrown. Women and children got out of the car and dispersed among the crowd, so far as it is known, unhurt. The conductor and motorman remained in their car, the trolley having been cut. It remained a fixture at that point immediately was to become a scene of battle.

Mounted Police Charge.

Almost simultaneously with this, the cry went out from the crowd: "Here comes the bloody soldiers," and around the corner of Main Street from the south, opposite the Union Bank, swept a single line of red-coated Royal North-West Mounted Police. They covered the whole street from gutter to gutter, dividing as they passed the derelict car. Immediately an angry cry was heard from the mob and an occasional missile was thrown at the passing soldiers. A hundred yards behind this first rank came a second rank of khaki-clad horsemen, said by the crowd to be members of the Strathcona Horse, and the Fort Garry Horse, but afterwards stated by Alderman Gray to be Royal North-West Mounted policemen returned from the front, to whom had not been issued the well-known scarlet tunic. The mob surged in on the flanks of the horsemen and a free throwing of bricks, bottles and any other available missiles began, many of the horses and men being struck. They rode on, however, north several blocks and then after a short interval returned again with drawn truncheons, and, dividing up into columns of four on each side of the street, sought to drive the mob back onto the sidewalks.

From alleyways nearby bricks had been torn up and hurled at the backs of the horsemen. As they divided to pass the street car the inevitable happened. One of the horses came down, and the soldier, on getting his feet, headed for the east side, where he dived into J. Thompson's undertaking parlors, 559 Main Street, with the crowd yelling at his heels. The doors were slammed to, but in a few minutes the plate glass front was smashed to atoms and a part of the crowd surged east on Market Street to cut him off if he tried to get through the back way. For a minute the front of the store was comparatively empty and the soldier dashed out again and crossed the three hundred feet width of Main Street to seek shelter at the corner of William Avenue.

He was intercepted and carried back a little way out of sight, up William Ave. Then followed the shooting. Almost immediately a party of Royal North West Mounted Police dashed to the rescue, the men with their revolvers drawn, and in columns of four. As seen from the other side of Main Street they debouched into City Hall Park, immediately in front of its steps. Shots were heard. "They are firing into the air," said one of the crowd. "They have only blank cartridges," said another. The effect was electrical. The dense throng in front of the City Hall ran frantically across Main Street, and buried themselves in lanes and alley-ways, forcing their way into the small hotels that abound thereabouts.

Men who no doubt had war experience threw themselves flat into the gutter. The shooting took place exactly fifteen minutes after the first appearance of the mounted men, at a quarter to three by the City Hall clock. And two or three minutes later City Hall square, and the wide expanse of Main Street was deserted. Across this waste of asphalt were brought the bodies of the casualties, by men who had been with them when they fell. These were placed in Thomson's Undertaking Parlor. By three o'clock in the afternoon several hundred policemen with drawn truncheons were marching over the now empty scene of the battle where yet the street car burned.

At half past three commissioned officers attached to Military District No. 10 addressed the crowd at the corner of Portage Avenue and Main Street, advising that the Riot Act had been read and that the city is now under martial law, and therefore every one should go home.

Nevertheless Main Street was still badly congested and the fire brigade was turning on their hose to clear the crowds from the tops of the surrounding buildings.

Armored cars with machine guns and troops at the "stand-to" were being held in reserve at the principal strategic points of the city.

Thirty-six hours ago the returned soldiers favoring the strikers' cause held a mass meeting just back of the City Hall. Some four or five thousand persons were present, of whom a good proportion had the right to wear the returned soldiers' button.

Then it was that the idea of the "Massed, silent parade," was suggested. It was stated by Comrade Martin, that such a demonstration had been very successful in North Britain. The proposal was favorably received.

ITALIAN CABINET RESIGNS FOLLOWING ADVERSE VOTE

A despatch from Rome says:—The Italian Government resigned on Thursday following an adverse vote against it in the Chamber of Deputies.

Premier Orlando, in announcing his resignation and that of the Cabinet, said King Victor Emmanuel had reserved decision as to acceptance.

The Chamber of Deputies had, by a vote of 59 to 78, rejected Premier Orlando's motion in favor of discussing the question of confidence, which related to the foreign policy of the Government, in secret session.

NEW GERMAN GOVERNMENT VOTES TO SIGN PEACE TREATY

Weimar Assembly Decides by Vote of 237 to 138 to Sign Treaty With Certain Reservations Which Include a Declaration to Give Up Ex-Kaiser for Trial.

Berlin, June 22.—The German National Assembly, by a vote of 237 to 138, has decided to sign the Peace Treaty.

The Assembly to-day gave a vote of confidence in the new Government of Herr Bauer, 286 to 89.

This means that the treaty will be signed.

Sixty-eight members of the Assembly refrained from voting.

Paris, June 22.—Communications from the Germans to the Council of Four, relating to the vote of the Assembly at Weimar, reached here at 7.45 o'clock this evening, and are now being considered by the Council.

One of the communications is understood to announce that the Assembly voted in favor of signing the treaty with certain reservations.

It is not known that the reservations are beyond a declaration to admit the guilt of Germany in starting the war and to give up the former Emperor for trial.

THE "TOWN KNOCKER."

The only thing to do with the "Town Knocker" is to kick him out. Tolerate him for a minute, and he spreads like an epidemic all over the community. He is the original "Calamity Howler" and "Bird-of-Bill-Omen." He is never so happy as when he can persuade other people to think the same way as he does. If allowed to "get the floor," he will knock the pins from under the best proposition on earth. He is against every form of improvement and if he converts enough people to HIS way of thinking, the town will come to a dead stop. After having KILLED everything, he glories in the fact that nothing can be done for the town. It is doomed. The only thing to do with the "Town Knocker" is to head him for the cemetery. His habit of knocking is so infectious that it has been known to spread among some of the BEST PEOPLE. KICK THE KNOCKER OUT.

GERMANS SINK THEIR FLEET SURRENDERED AT SCAPA FLOW

Opened Seacocks and All Big Ships, the Battleships and Battle-Cruisers, Excepting the Baden, Went to Bottom Flying German Flag at Masthead.

London, June 22.—The German officers and sailors forming the complements of the German ships interned at Scapa Flow sank most of their fleet to-day. All the big ships, the battleships and battle cruisers, excepting the Baden, and numerous smaller craft were sunk, while others went ashore in a half-sunken condition.

Eighteen destroyers were beached by tugs, four still are afloat, while the remainder went under.

The wholesale sinking of the German ships, which came to Scapa Flow to surrender under the terms of the armistice, was carefully arranged by the officers and crews. All explosives had been removed, and therefore the only means of destroying the fleet was by opening the seacocks. The ships went slowly down, with the German flag, which the crews had hoisted, showing at the mastheads.

The crews, composed entirely of Germans, under the terms of the armistice, which did not permit of British guards aboard, took to the boats when the vessels began to settle. While making for the shore the boats were challenged and called German crews aboard. But we are given to surrender. Some of them were the commons and were used, at least.

FRANCE WILL NOT CEDE ISLANDS TO GREAT BRITAIN

A despatch from St. Pierre says:—Recent Government expenditures in this colony of France are regarded here as virtually disposing of the suggestion that the islands be ceded to Great Britain and added to the Newfoundland Dominion. It is announced that several million francs will be spent in the development of St. Pierre, the centre of France's fishing industry in the Western Atlantic. A contract had been placed with a New York company for the construction of a large refrigerating plant here, and work has already begun. A powerful wireless station is also being installed by the Government.

MANY FRENCH SOLDIERS MISSING IN ACTION

A despatch from Paris says:—German figures on the number of French prisoners held in Germany were found to be incorrect, Leon Abrami, Under-Secretary in the Ministry of War, announced in the Chamber on Thursday. More than 60,000 French prisoners in excess of the German figures were found in Germany.

Bonhomme's
Compliments

By ALEC BRUCE

It was annoying in business hours, very annoying, yes. M'sieur Bonhomme could stand it no longer.

True, he did not do much business after five o'clock. But what had that to do with it? These young men did not mean business, no! Their time was their own. Bah, even Marie, his own beautiful, peachbloom Marie, had had enough. And enough is as good as a feast; her manner said so. Her tongue? More things than tongues can speak!

M'sieu rose suddenly from his inksplattered desk and paced slowly up and down the dimly lighted aisle of his old furniture store.

"Yes, it will end, now—tonight!" he muttered. "I cannot stand it longer.
These young men, young fools, I will pack them home, where they belong.
My daughter is my daughter, not a plaything! Her time, my time, is valuable."

Before a dust-coated mirror in a tall mahogany wardrobe he paused a moment, shaking his fist at the full-featured reflection with its curling gray hair and subdued floridity of countenance.

"And you, m'sieur, must pack them home; you have been too long about it!"

His big brown eyes blazed ominously.

"Father!" A door opened in the clumsy tapestry frame screening the little living rooms behind, and a girl, tall and darkly handsome, a little past twenty, perhaps, with a humorous and clever expression, beamed on him out of liquid wells of blue. "Father," she repeated, "Mr. Moorson is coming.
He—he—I think he is coming here again."

"Thank you, Marie, thank you," stammered M'sieur, his broad, clean-shaven face pinked distinctly. "Er—and if—if I am not seen, I suppose that I will not be in the way, my hear every word—"I am so glad to see you; and you are alone? Ah, that is fortunate, for I have a secret to tell you tonight. Marie, I—I love you, dear. No, no; do not forbid me. I must tell you—"

"Sh—oh, Mr. Corson," she stampered, glancing swiftly upward, "I—I—please do not tell me any—any secrets tonight, please—I—"

"Marie, my Marie," he insisted, laying a large, bony hand on her small, trembling one, "one kiss, dear, just one," he pleaded, his strong arm stealing around her slender waist.

"No, no, Mr. Corson, no!"

Bang! The full-blown decorated globe of an antiquated lamp splintered on the gallery floor and glittered in frosty powder on a crimson mat.

"Who—who—was that?" demanded Mr. Corson, catching his breath and quickly withdrawing his arm. "What?
you father bu-breaking stock—I—I thought that he was out!"

"Hush—hush!"

Again footsteps sounded on the tilling outside and M'sieur began to descend the spiral stairway behind.

Mr. Corson jumped to his feet:
"Hide me, Marie, hide me! Someone's coming both ways. I—I would rather not be seen."

"Quick, then, in here!" she breathed, throwing open the door of a fine wardrobe just opposite the fifth mahogany piece. Click!

"Ha!" M'sieur saw Mr. Corson's countails disappear. "One, two, three, four," he counted carefully, and as he passed up the aisle to meet the portly newcomer shaking hands with Ma'mselle at the door, he turned two keys, in the mahogany and mission rows, and dropped them in his pocket.

"Ha, Mister Barron, good afternoon, good afternoon! You are well, yes? And Mrs. Barron? Ah, that is good! Something—er—this afternoon, perhaps?"

Mr. Barron was M'sieur's best customer. Purchasing agent for a much larger furniture store, when his firm ran out of any particular piece desired at once, Bonhomme, if he could supply, always got the order.

"Ah, good afternoon, M'sieur, good afternoon!" responded Mr. Barron loudly. "Yes, sir, I want two wardrobes, in a hurry. Send them out in our wagon; it's at your door now. A mahogany one for—er—take a note of them! Ready?" He glanced at the notebook in his hand—"Mr. James Moorson, 91 Cookson avenue. You know the gentleman's son, I think.
I've seen him here."

"Ha, ha!" M'sieur chuckled.

Mr. Barron looked curiously over his spectacles. "Er? and one for M'sieur Arthur Corson, 15 Marion terrace.
Perhaps you know young Corson, also?
Ha, ha!"

"Ha, ha!" echoed M'sieur.

"And I want both in model A, Bonhomme, remember. Ah, you have a row of each, I see. Well, don't fail me.
Get 'em home at once. My men are at your service. Good day, I'm off. Busy as bees down our way."

"Good day, sir, good day," smilingly M'sieur bowed his patron out, and signalled the men to come in. They were big strong fellows both of them.
But when the wardrobes were loaded and roped, they came back to the store.

"Yes?" queried Bonhomme with arching brows.

"A drink of water, if you please,
sir?"

"Certainly," mumbled M'sieur, turning his face away. "Oh, Marie, som' water! som' water, up front here! Ah, and the keys, I forgot the keys," he muttered when the men followed ma'mselle away, "and these men can deliver them with the goods, yes."

He hurried to his desk and drew out two business cards. "With Bon-homme's compliments," he wrote on each, and placed them with the little gilded keys in their respective envelopes.

One of the men tucked the packets carefully away in his pockets. "Yes, sir," he promised, "I'll see that the right parties gets 'em. You bet I will,
sir."

"Oh, father," pouted ma'mselle when the door closed, "these young men, oh, these young men, they are such troubles. Oh, I do not want them, and they are here, yet. What shall I do?"

"Ha, ha, ha! non, non, my dear," laughed M'sieur, "they are not here!
You make one beeg mistake. These young men will not trouble you again.
They have gone home to their fathers
—with the compliments of Bonhomme, yes! Ha, ha!"

report: "I ran up this signal for all the ships in sight: 'The fate of the empire depends upon this event; every
